First Session of Methodist Cabinet Held at Richmond Hotel.

CONFERENCE OPENS TO-DAY

Many Important Church Matters to Be Discussed This Week.

Church were throsged all day yesteray and last night with delegates here

Church were throsged all day yesterday and last night with delegates here in attendance on the 128th annual conference, the enrolment including the greater part of the Methodist churches in Virginia and some in Miryland. The conference will open this morning at 9 o'clock with communion and a brief address from Bishop Alpheus W. Wilson, of Baltimore, who will preside over the daily sessions of the conference for the next week.

Committees of conference met to perfect reports yesterday afternoon, and last night there was an extended examination of candidates for the Methodist ministry, held under the charge of special committees in Broad Street Methodist Church. In the church pariors at Centenary, where the incoming ministers and lay delegates assembled to shake hands and renew acquaintanceship and talk over the work of the coming conference, there was the usual political undercurrent and gossip of probable changes, all of which is, however, necessarily tentative at this time.

Bishop Wilson held the first session of his cabinet at the Richmond Hotel yesterday afternoon. The cabinet is made up of the eleven presiding elders in this conference, and advises with the bishop in regard to the conference assignments for the coming year. While in practice the bishop is largely guided by its advice, in the church law he does not have to take it, and may

While in practice the bishop is largely guided by its advice, in the church law he does not have to take it, and may change his lists even after the last neeting of the cabinet, the announcement of the list of assignments being the last item of business before the conference. Under the plan, therefore, the business works up to a climax, and interest grows more and more intense each day.

fore, the business works up to a climax, and interest grows more and more intense each day.

While there is always more or less unrest and undercurrent of discussion over possible changes until the list is finally announced, yet it is admitted that, comparatively speaking, there will be few changes this year. This is not the "change year" for the larger pulpits, and those who are ambittous for advancement are hoping that they will not be transferred this year, as next year, when the larger pulpits become vacant, there will be greater opportunities for men of ability.

Few Changes Here.

In Richmond pulpits the only one which must change by Methodist church law is that of Trinity Church, where Rev. W. R. Proctor has served for the full four years. By mutual consent and to heal an old dispute arising over the appointments made by Bishop Morrison last year, and later changed after the original announcement, Rev. R. M. Chandler will leave Clay Street Church. There are no charges against Mr. Chandler, and it may even be that he will be advanced to a presiding eldership, but the effort of the church to retain its old pastor last year led to an embarrassing situation, which both Mr. Chandler and the stewards of the church agree will be best healed by a change of assignment.

Something of a precenterence sen-ment.

Something of a precenterence sensation has been created by the address of Rev. William W. Lear, of the Berkeley Avenue Church, Norfolk, who last Sunday night took occasion to accuse his congregation and stewards of falling to give him proper support in his congregation and stewards of failing to give him proper support in carrying on the work of the church There is a neculiar significance through the fact that Dr. Lear is admittedly one of the strong men of the conference, and has been a presiding elder. There may be some aftermath when the church is called on to report, as the conference may wish to know in what respect the congregation has failed to support the pastor in his work.
